

Summer Term 2015

Dr. Jan Sauermann

(1395) Stability, quality, and performance of democracy

Time: Mondays 10:00 – 11:30

Room: Gottfried-Keller-Str. 6, Hörsaal des Forschungsinstituts

First session: 13 April 2015

Course description

The course provides a broad overview of the literature on democracy in comparative politics. We will concentrate on two major topics; factors influencing the quality and stability of democracy and the effects of democracy, i.e. its performance. We will discuss the following questions:

Quality and stability:

- What is democracy? How can we define democracy?
- How can we measure democracy?
- Which factors promote transitions to democracy?
- Why do democracies fail?
- Which factors stabilize democracy?

Performance:

- What are the effects of democracy in comparison to authoritarian systems of government?

Prerequisites

Students should have a good knowledge of political science concepts, basic qualitative and quantitative methods, and an interest in current research. Since nearly all reading assignments are in English, this will be the general classroom language as well. Participants therefore must know enough English to be able to participate actively. Perfection is not required – you just need to understand and make yourself understood.

Relevance for study programmes

The course is open to master/diploma students of the WiSo-Faculty with an interest in political science.

Registration

The course will be taught on a weekly basis (first session April 13). Students should register via KLIPS. Students unable to use KLIPS can register via Email (jan.sauermann@uni-koeln.de).

Reading assignments

At the beginning of April a reader with the required texts for the sessions of the seminar can be bought at Copy-Star (Zülpicher Straße 184, 50937 Köln).

Working requirements and assessment method

All participants are expected to:

- attend the seminar on a regular basis
- complete assigned readings according to schedule
